Love and Romance in Punctured Motor Tire

Iowa Youth Wins Beautiful Bride and Fortune through Invention.

YORK, Neb., July 24.—Just one year ago Miss Josephine Patricia Collins, one of this city's most charming young women, was motoring along a country road near this city when a protruding nail in a wooden bridge punctured one of the tires of her car. She had worked for more than an hour in her attempt to remove the tire and repair the damage. She was about to give up in despair and return to her home with a flat tire when a young man, fresh from college and a suitor for her hand, approached in another car.

Fixes Tire.

"I'll fix that tire for you, Josephine," he said.

And then John Cunningham—for that is his name—proposed to Josephine. Close friends assert that the young woman told Cunningham that he must do something really worth while before she would become his bride. She told him that he was a natural inventor and that he should make use of his talent. She suggested that he invent a tool that would lighten the work of removing and replacing tires on wheels of motor cars. Miss Collins shook her pretty head when Cunningham remonstrated.

"I shall reward you in due time," she said. "But do not call on me until you have accomplished the task." For eight months John Cunningham avoided all social functions. What he was doing no one appeared to know. When friends called at his home they were told that he was busy in the attic. Neighbors could see a light burning there all night long. They began to regard him as a recluse. Three months ago he called at the home of his sweetheart.

Gets Patent.

"I have done your task, Josephine," he announced. "To prove it, here's a patent from Washington. I have named it after the initials of your first two names. I have called it the J. P. tire tool. Here's the model for you. When you have tire trouble, hereafter you can fix it without soiling your dainty little hands and in the twinkling of your pretty black eyes."

They were engaged that night. Last week—just one year from the day the bride met with tire mishap on the country road—they were married.

The invention demanded as a sacrifice by Dan Cupid is making the inventor wealthy.

TEA RACES

Are Recalled by the Sinking of Norwegian Bark by German Submarine.

CHRISTIANIA, July 27.—The Norwegian bark, Fiery Cross, recently sunk by a German submarine off the Selly Islands, was the most renowned of the China clippers that figured in the great tea races fifty years ago.

It was built in 1860 to replace an older Fiery Cross which had been wrecked the previous year, and was commanded on its maiden voyage by Captain Dallas, the greatest of the clipper captains. Under him and his successor, Captain Richard Robinson, it proved well-nigh invincible, receiving the premium for being the first vessel in the English docks on four different years, and being within the race on two other occasions. It remained in the front of big racing boats for more years than any other vessel in marine history, and outlived all its contemporaries of the famous skipper fleet.

In the greatest tea race of all history, that of 1866, the Fiery Cross held the lead until the last few days, when it was obliged to anchor in the downs and ride out a sudden gale. The Ariel, coming through on less stormy course, beat a way through the gale and docked a few hours ahead of its rival.

In 1871 the Fiery Cross deserted the tea trade for that of New York, and was afterwards sold to a Norwegian syndicate.

FEW AMERICANS

Are Seen These Days in English Cities and Towns Because of the War.

ILFRACOMBE, England, July 27.—"You are the first American we have seen this season and a year ago there was never a day without many of them," said the manager of a well known inn in this Devon town so popular with tourists. It is the same story in Somerset, Warwickshire, Devon or Cornwall. A Stratford manager showed the register for this week last year and counted forty-six American names. The register was full of "New York," "Boston," "Chicago," "Memphis" and few other than American guests were recorded there. Now the fear of raids on the east coast has helped these western resorts a little, but the easy-spending American tourist is sorely missed and the regular coach trips have been abandoned. The thatched roofs, rose-covered walls, are here, of course, but those liberal American tips are no longer welcomed because no longer received. Still if the customary troops of American were here how they would find fault with the passport regulations, and the necessity of reporting at the police station in every town you visit and the ban on cameras and the upset train schedules and the lack of German wares particularly in the chemists' or druggists' shops.
